The mighty Tyrannosaurus was one of the last big dinosaurs. It lived alongside a newcomer to Earth—flowers! And soaring overhead is a flying reptile called a pterosaur. Pterosaurs, the big dinosaurs, and many other types of animals disappeared at the end of the Cretaceous Period. Scientists think that a large meteorite might have hit the Earth at that time, causing them to die off. But not all of the dinosaurs are gone! Birds are really a special kind of dinosaur!
Scientists just unearthed a brand new fossil. Connect the dots to see their new skull of the mighty Tyrannosaurus rex!
