Devonian New York

MUSEUM OF THE EARTH
DEVONIAN FISHES

Lobe Fish

Lung Fish
Even though the Sea Lily looks like a flower, it is actually an animal related to the "seastar" or star fish. The crinoid or "sea lily" can still be found today but in fewer amounts than in the Devonian Period.
Dot-to-Dot

Gastropods

Another word to describe them:

---

Palaeozygopleura tenebra

Platystoma euomphalades

Drawings by Maureen Bickley